March 14, 2015

Are you comfortable with your new camera. Did you purchase a Canon G12 or other point and shoot with a lot of options? Need help understanding how to get the best shots from your expensive point and shoot? Join us for an afternoon in Long Beach capturing some great images with our walk around cameras.

Join us to learn the tricks to ensure you get images you are proud of and are keepers. We will take the time to review your equipment and set up to avoid those images where you pull them up and they are not in focus (not sharp), or over/under exposed. If you hate finding these throw away images when you get back from shooting – this is a great opportunity to learn the basic of how to avoid bad images.

Over time William has learned these lessons the hard way. He will share some stories and facts on what you can do to get the images you know will be keepers.

This is sure to be a fun filled and unique learning Adventure.
